

EXPLORE THE NATIONAL LABS

EXPLORE BY TOPIC

COLLABORATIVE PROJECTS

BOOTH SCHEDULE

HOME

The U.S. Department of Energy's Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL) is a collaborative national center for fusion energy research. The Laboratory advances the coupled fields of fusion energy and plasma physics research, and, with collaborators, is developing the scientific understanding and key innovations needed to realize fusion as an energy source for the world. An associated mission is providing the highest quality of scientific education.

BACK TO MAP

